MESSAGE FROM RICHARD D. WILLSTATTER
NYSACDL PRESIDENT 2012

This has been an exceptional year for the New York State Association of Criminal Defense Lawyers. Our point of view has been published in newspapers and law journals from New York City to Buffalo and our public positions are now sought out by Assembly and Senate staffers. We have stood up against those prosecutors who resist our calls for discovery reform and have resisted their continuous calls for more repressive legislation. We have “so far” successfully opposed a bill to require the imposition of criminal forfeiture in every criminal case. With the assistance of our Legislative Chair, Andrew Kossover, and Past President Lisa Schreibersdorf, NYSACDL will continue to press for raising the age of criminal responsibility, for discovery reform and for a meaningful statute to permit sealing for old, nonviolent criminal convictions.

Our magazine, Atticus, publishes timely and thoughtful articles designed to provoke new ideas for defending our clients. The work in publishing Atticus is substantial and our 2012 editors, Benjamin Ostrer, John Wallenstein and Andrew Patel, deserve applause for their tireless efforts to bring you timely and informative material. We are happy to announce we have a new publisher, Miller Printing of Amsterdam, New York, whose product is sure to please.

The NYSACDL listserv provides a ready source of camaraderie and assistance to our members. Lawyers from Suffolk County to Erie County regularly provide help within moments of a request. Many members have reported acquittals and other favorable outcomes directly attributable to help they obtained from listserv contributors.

Our Continuing Legal Education Committee continues to provide outstanding seminars for defense attorneys. We have provided topnotch CLEs in Buffalo, Syracuse, Binghamton, Hauppauge, Poughkeepsie and New York City. Our Annual Federal Criminal Practice program will be held at the US Courthouse in Manhattan on March 6, 2013 with a stellar cast of speakers. Thanks are owed to the NYSACDL Directors who created these events and will bring you more worthy programs this year.

Our Amicus Curiae committee has been hard at work providing NYSACDL a voice in the state and federal appellate courts. Notably, we earned a hard-won victory for the right to a public trial in the en banc rehearing of United States v. Gupta, 699 F.3d 682 (2d Cir. 2012).

NYSACDL’s membership has grown appreciably as lawyers learn of its value. More than one hundred new members joined the Association in 2012. The Officers and Directors of NYSACDL played a critical role in promoting the value of a dedicated, statewide criminal defense bar association.

The Association can look forward to 2013 with a renewed sense of purpose and confidence in the leadership of President Benjamin Ostrer, President-elect Aaron Mysliwiec and Executive Director Margaret E. Alverson.
MESSAGE FROM BENJAMIN OSTRER
NYSACDL PRESIDENT 2013

From its founding in 1986, NYSACDL has grown into the largest Criminal Bar Association in New York, committed to improving our criminal justice system through education, advocacy and diligent pursuit of the rights of the accused. Although the Sixth Amendment provides that “in all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right ... to have the Assistance of Counsel for his defence”, for most of our history the rights of the accused and particularly the indigent were practically non-existent outside the largest of metropolitan areas and very limited within those. It was not until 1932 that lawyers from New York persuaded the United States Supreme Court in the landmark “Scottsboro Boys case” (Powell v. Alabama) that a right to counsel existed in state capital or death penalty cases. The Nine Scottsboro Boys had been convicted of rape of two young women, one of whom later recanted. Ten years later, in 1942, the Supreme Court declined to expand the right to counsel beyond capital cases in Betts v. Brady. It took another two decades before the Supreme Court made clear that all defendants had a Sixth Amendment right to counsel in state felony proceedings.

This year marks the 50th anniversary of Gideon v. Wainwright, which overruled Betts v. Brady and established that all defendants in state court had a right to an attorney. Each advance was gained through the advocacy of dedicated counsel. Rights which we now take for granted were obtained only through the diligence of the criminal defense bar.

For the last quarter century, NYSACDL has stood apart from all other bar associations in our willingness to tackle the tough issues and through our lobbying efforts which have blunted the regular attempts to erode the rights of defendants in New York State. Our amicus efforts have resulted in vindication of important points of law in both State and Federal appeals courts. The criminal justice system demands that every defendant receive effective representation. NYSACDL through its membership is dedicated to the preservation and expansion of the legal rights of those accused.

We need look no further than the story told by tonight's honorees: Sara Burns, David McMahon and Ken Burns in their film “The Central Park Five” to realize that NYSACDL has much to do. We also confer an honor upon Judge Jeffrey Berry for his distinguished tenure on the bench and for his early outspoken criticism of the Rockefeller Drug Laws. Susan Necheles, Esq. is recognized for her extraordinary and dedicated efforts on behalf the accused. In according tonight's awards NYSACDL recognizes not only the accomplishments of our honorees but the tireless and courageous work of those upon whose shoulders we stand.
NYSACDL will continue to lead the way in support of the efforts of its membership in pressing for legislation, in amicus submissions and through our Lawyers Strike Force Assistance Committee, chaired by outgoing President Richard Willstatter and our Prosecutorial and Judicial Complaint Committee chaired by Past President Jim Harrington. Our CLE programs, Atticus magazine, and attorney list-serve are among the best in the country and are resources which both new and accomplished practitioners can improve their skills and collaborate on a broad spectrum of matters of importance.

I am humbled by the privilege to serve as the 26th president of NYSACDL and look forward to building upon the advances of my predecessors. While I will follow in the footsteps of the very illustrious gallery of past-presidents of NYSACDL, I can only hope to fill their shoes.

Best wishes for an enjoyable evening and to new successes in 2013.

-Ben Ostrer
HONORABLE JEFFREY G. BERRY
ACTING SUPREME COURT JUSTICE AND COUNTY COURT JUDGE ORANGE COUNTY, NEW YORK
HONORABLE WILLIAM BRENNAN AWARD FOR OUTSTANDING JURIST

Judge Berry is being recognized for his enlightened treatment of defendants who have appeared before him. Judge Berry was an early critic of the Rockefeller Drug Laws and was outspoken concerning the injustice of the law, he has also supported freedom of the media in relation to court proceedings. Judge Berry has gained a reputation for being among the fairest jurists in the region in sentencing particularly for younger defendants who do not qualify for youthful offender treatment. The Orange County Drug Treatment Court was one of the earliest to be established in New York State in large part through Judge Berry's commitment to the program, which was a response to the initiatives of Chief Judge Judith Kaye. He has been called upon to handle high profile cases in Essex, Monroe, Albany and Kings Counties in which local justices were unable to preside. His ruling in vacating a conviction in an Orange County homicide case due to jurors sharing professional expertise during deliberations was ratified by the Court of Appeals and resulted in a new CJI instruction raising awareness of confrontation and due process issues which extend beyond the courtroom and trial and into jury functions. He also respected for his flexibility in courtroom proceedings and for affording lawyers great latitude at trial. His evidentiary rulings from the bench are regarded as even handed which are notable for an absence of perceived deference to the prosecution.

Judge Berry was born, raised and lives in Newburgh, New York and is a graduate of SUNY New Paltz and the University of Tulsa College of Law. Judge Berry has served on the Board of Trustees of Hospice of Orange & Sullivan Counties, the Orange County AIDS Council and the SUNY New Paltz Foundation. He is a skilled tennis player and avid fly fisherman. He was in private practice and criminal defense from his admission to the bar in 1975 until becoming a City Court Judge in Newburgh in 1984. Six years later, he won election to the Orange County Court to which he was reelected in 2000 and 2010. He was appointed acting Supreme Court justice in 1994 and retains that role today. In addition to his County and Supreme Court duties Judge Berry has served as supervising Judge of the City Courts of the 9th Judicial District since 2006.
Susan Necheles is a partner in the law firm Hafetz Necheles & Rocco. Her practice focuses on the defense of individuals and entities in criminal investigations and trials and civil fraud cases.

Ms. Necheles graduated from Yale Law School in 1983 where she was an Editor on the Yale Law Journal. In 1986 she began working at the criminal defense firm Goldman & Hafetz, eventually becoming a partner. Throughout the 1980s and 1990s she worked with Fred Hafetz and tried many criminal cases. She was fortunate during this time period to have the opportunity to try cases with and learn from many of New York and New Jersey’s greatest criminal defense trial lawyers.

In 2001 Mr. Hafetz and Ms. Necheles formed the law firm Hafetz & Necheles. In 2010 they were joined by Victor Rocco, and formed the law firm Hafetz Necheles & Rocco.

From 2001 through 2006 Ms. Necheles headed the New York Women’s Criminal Defense Lawyer’s Group. She served on the Board of New York Council of Defense Lawyers. She was a Master in the Federal Bar Council's Inn of Court.
KEN BURNS, SARAH BURNS AND DAVID MCMAHON
JUSTICE THROUGH THE ARTS AWARD

KEN BURNS
Ken Burns has been making documentary films for more than 30 years. Since the Academy Award-nominated BROOKLYN BRIDGE in 1981, he has gone on to direct and produce some of the most acclaimed historical documentaries ever made.

Burns was the director, producer, co-writer, chief cinematographer, music director and executive producer of the landmark television series THE CIVIL WAR. This film was the highest-rated series in the history of American public television, prior to BASEBALL, and attracted an audience of 40 million during its premiere in September 1990. The New York Times called it a masterpiece and said that Burns “takes his place as the most accomplished documentary filmmaker of his generation.” Tom Shales of The Washington Post said, “This is not just good television, nor even just great television. This is heroic television.” The columnist George Will said, “If better use has ever been made of television, I have not seen it and do not expect to see better until Ken Burns turns his prodigious talents to his next project.” The series has been honored with more than 40 major film and television awards, including two Emmy Awards, two Grammy Awards, a Producer of the Year Award from the Producer's Guild, a People's Choice Award, a Peabody Award, a DuPont-Columbia Award, a D.W. Griffiths Award and the $50,000 Lincoln Prize, among dozens of others.

He is a co-producer, writer and director of the film THE CENTRAL PARK FIVE.

Burns was born in Brooklyn, New York, in 1953. He graduated from Hampshire College in Amherst, Massachusetts, in 1975.

DAVID McMAHON
David McMahon first joined Ken Burns and Florentine Films as an assistant editor on Jazz (2001). Following stints at PBS's public affairs series, Frontline, and at National Geographic Television and Film, McMahon returned to Florentine to co-produce The War (2007) and The National Parks: America's Best Idea (2009). With Burns and Lynn Novick, he wrote and produced The Tenth Inning (2010), a follow-up to their Baseball series.

With Ken Burns and Sarah Burns, McMahon produced, wrote and directed The Central Park Five, a two-hour film about the five black and Latino teenagers wrongly convicted in the Central Park Jogger case of 1989, which premiered at the 2012 Cannes Film Festival and was awarded the best documentary award by the New York Film Critics Circle.

He is currently writing and producing a Florentine Films production about Jackie Robinson.

Raised in Clarence, New York, and a graduate of the University of Michigan, McMahon lives in Brooklyn, New York with his wife, Sarah Burns, and their daughter.

SARAH BURNS

Sarah Burns is the author of The Central Park Five: A Chronicle of a City Wilding (Knopf, 2011) and, along with David McMahon and Ken Burns, the producer, writer and director of the documentary THE CENTRAL PARK FIVE, which premiered at the Cannes Film Festival in 2012 and earned the 2012 NYFCC award for best documentary. She is currently working on a film about the life and times of Jackie Robinson.

Sarah was born and raised in Walpole, New Hampshire. She graduated from Yale University in 2004 with a degree in American Studies, and now lives in Brooklyn, New York with her husband, David McMahon, and their daughter.
NYSACDL thanks its Amicus authors and co-chairs for their time, effort and energy in researching and briefing issues of state-wide and national importance to the criminal defense practice.
